

I would like to ask that the FCC not enact any proposal that would lessen Indiana's telephone protection law. We used to be bombarded every day and particularly every evening with unwanted telemarketing calls. I would estimate 10-15 calls per week. Many during our evening meal. My wife and I both work full time. Our time at home in the evening is precious and private. With this law unwanted calls have almost entirely stopped. Maybe once or twice a month will we get an unwanted call. Thankyou for giving me the opportunity to give you this comment
